THIS DOCUMENT CONTAINS INFORMATION AFFECTING THE NATIONAL DEFENSE OF THE UNITED STATES WITHIN THE MEANING OF THE ESPIONAGE ACT OF 1917, U.S.C. 51 AND 52, AS AMENDED. ITS TRANSMISSION OR THE REVELATION OF ITS CONTENTS IN ANY MANNER TO AN UNAUTHORIZED PERSON IS PROHIBITED BY LAW. REPRODUCTION OF THIS FORM IS PROHIBITED.

THIS IS UNEVALUATED INFORMATION

1. Aircraft Engine Plant No. 10, the number of which had been learned from Soviets, was located at the southern border of MOLOTOV (56°20'E/58°N). It was observed in early 1949 that railroad cars carrying 12 and sometimes 24 8x6.5x5-foot boxes left the plant on various days. The noise of engines was heard until late 1947 both day and night, and after late 1947 only during the day.

2. Aircraft Engine Accessories Plant No. 33, the number of which had been learned from Soviets, was located about one mile south of Plant No. 19, on the road to the BAKHAREVKA RR station.

work in Plant No. 19 was done in three shifts. According to Soviets, this plant allegedly manufactured accessories for aircraft engines.

3. about one mile southeast of Plant No. 19 there was Plant No. 26 where gramophones, records, armament, and small aircraft parts were manufactured.

Comment:

a. Report does not contain any new information on Engine Plant No. 19. The information that brake tests have been done at the test stands since late 1947 only by day is at variance with previous reports covering the same period of observation, and is considered improbable.

b. Plant No. 26 is probably identical to Plant No. 470, which had evolved from Plant No. 224. The latter plant, which previously produced medical instruments and oxygen apparatuses, had been transferred from LENINGRAD to MOLOTOV.

This document is hereby regraded to CONFIDENTIAL in accordance with the letter of 18 October 1978 from the Director of Central Intelligence to the Archivist of the United States.
